JUDGE ROBBINS VACATES BENCH

Caleb Powers Filed Affidavit
Which Proves Effective

Contained Startling Revelations
Concerning Beckham and Robbins.

On the calling of the case of Commonwealth of Kentucky against Caleb Powers at Georgetown Monday James Sims, of Bowling Green, in behalf of the prisoner arose and said: "We desire to offer this affidavit from the defendant asking that you vacate the bench."

With this he handed to James E. Robbins, of Mayfield, the special judge appointed by Gov. Beckham, and the man who presided at the third trial of Powers, a lengthy paper. Judge Robbins said, "In order to expedite matters, the court will read the affidavit and pass upon it now."

After a half hour in which three Judge Robbins glanced hurriedly over the document he passed it over to Commonwealth's Attorney Robert Franklin and asked his pleasure. Attorney Franklin only looked in the direction of where the paper had been on the table and smiled. He looked at his co-attorneys, Victor Bradley and Ben Williams and then they all smiled.

They were then joined in the smiles by Arthur Goebel, who was seated just behind Mr. Franklin, and then they looked across the room toward the attorneys for the defense and the defendant himself. There were no smiles on that side of the court room, but there was an air of confidence which forbade earnestness and Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin after the embarrassing pause said without rising from the chair, "We would like to have some time to examine the paper your honor."

Judge Robbins adjourned Court until Tuesday morning to give the attorneys on the side of the Commonwealth time to examine the affidavit.

When the court convened next morning Commonwealth's Attorney Robert Franklin stated that the State had in preparation a response to the affidavit filed by the defense on Monday to have Special Judge Robbins removed, and that his side desired more time to consider it. He said that there was much matter in the affidavit that should be replied to and that the prosecution desired to fully prepare a response.

Major Owens, of counsel for Powers answered to the effect that a counter affidavit or a reply could not, according to the law, be entered upon the records of the court. He said his side had no objection to some further reasonable time be given, if the prosecution wanted it. Court then adjourned until 2 o'clock.

The attorneys for the defense say that Mrs. Yontsey testified in her deposition taken a few days ago and filed in court Monday that her husband told her that his treatment in the penitentiary before his confession was cruel and inhuman, but after he testified he was treated much better and was given an easy job. She testifies that she heard her husband say in the Georgetown jail he knew nothing incriminating against Powers, and that from all her husband said and did she believed Powers is innocent.

Powers' affidavit upon which he relies to induce Judge Robbins to vacate and not sit in this trial was given out to the press Tuesday night.

It begins by setting out the bitter campaign waged between Democrats and Republicans in the fall of 1899, when the tickets were headed, respectively, by William Goebel and W. S. Taylor.

It states that the tragic murder of Goebel by an unknown assassin further inflamed the passion and anger of the followers of Goebel almost to riot and revolution, and that from the day Goebel was shot down in the Statehouse yard at Frankfort, the leaders of the Democratic party and the followers of Goebel, including Gov. Beckham and Judge Robbins, have valiantly sought to have him (Powers) hanged and have proclaimed on the stump in political speeches that he was guilty and deserved to pay the death penalty.

He further charges in his affidavit that during the progress of the third trial the rulings of the court were flagrantly unfair to him, that the court was irritable in dealing with the defendant and his counsel and his rulings on objections by counsel for the defense were interspersed with sarcastic remarks showing his bias and hostility. He charges that when he was on the witness stand testifying in his own behalf that the court interfered with him in a capricious, critical manner.

He charges that the court gave the Commonwealth almost unrestricted money and restricted in every way possible the introduction of testimony favorable to the defendant. He further charges that during the progress of the trial and while the jury was deliberating on the case Judge Robbins went into the jury room on two different occasions, closed the door and was secretly closeted with the members of the jury.

He says that on August 16, 1903, during the progress of the trial Judge Robbins went personally to the house where the jury was confined and presented them with a copy of the Courier-Journal, then and now the leading Democratic paper of the State, which contained the following article of the previous day's proceedings in the trial:

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 16, 1903.—The Commonwealth will tomorrow close the shortest case it has yet made out against Caleb Powers on the charge of conspiring to murder William Goebel. So strong it is and so well put together and presented to the jury of Bourbon county citizens that the general expressed opinion of those who have heard it is that it will probably of acquittal or hung jury has been dispelled, and the jury will only consider the extent of punishment. When the time arrives for the argument the Commonwealth will strongly urge the infliction of the death penalty as a fit ending to this trial of the man its officers have always considered the leading spirit in the murder conspiracy.

Judge Robbins surprised everybody Wednesday morning by announcing that he would decline to sit as trial judge in the Powers case. He ordered the fact certified to Governor Beckham who will appoint another. Attorneys representing the defendant submitted a list of thirty leading attorneys of the State most of whom were Democrats, any of whom would be satisfactory to Powers, but attorneys representing the prosecution refused to agree to any of them.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF NIGHT RIDERS.

Burnett Humphrey's Wheat Must
Ruin Because Threshermen
Warned not to Thresh Crop.

Hopkinsville, Ky., July 27.—Burnt Montgomery neighborhood, in Trigg county, is the latest farmer in this section to fall under the ban of the night riders. Humphreys is a poor man and had found it necessary to have his wife and children to work in the fields in order to make a living. His principal crop this year consisted of wheat, and on this he expected to support his family during the year.

Yesterday Humphreys made arrangements with James L. Gaines, who operates a threshing machine in that neighborhood, to thresh his wheat. This morning when Gaines was preparing to pull the machine into Humphreys' field he found a notice tacked on the machine warning him that if he threshed Humphreys' crop, not only would his threshing machine be blown up but that he would be liable to personal injury. In cases of this kind, there is always the possibility of hidden danger by dynamite concealed in the wheat or in some other fashion. Gaines declined to thresh the crop, and moved his machine to another farm.

Humphreys has spent all of today in an effort to secure some other threshing operator to thresh his wheat, but he has failed, and the wheat will rot in the field.

Jackson-Rowe.

Mr. J. C. Jackson and Miss Nettie Rowe, both young people of Centertown, were quietly married at the home of Rev. L. W. Tichenor at Mt. Pleasant last Sunday night. Only a few were present to witness the ceremony which was solemnized by Rev. Tichenor in his usual pleasant but impressive manner. Mr. Jackson is one of Ohio county's best teachers while the bride is the popular milliner for Rowe and Morton at Centertown. The many friends of this popular couple join in extending congratulations.

HAYWOOD NOT GUILTY SAYS JURY.

Eleven Weeks Trial Ends Favorably to the Defendant.

On First Ballot Eight Jurors Voted for Acquittal and Four Voted Guilty.

At an early hour last Sunday morning at Boise, Idaho, the jury which had listened attentively for 11 weeks to evidence of the most sensational nature and had struggled in the hot jury room in the dingy old court house of that city for 21 hours returned a verdict that released from custody Wm. D. Haywood, Secretary and Treasurer of the Western Federation of Labor.

Darrow's plea and Richardson's argument won over the matchless logic of Senator Borah and the careful analysis of Howley. The fighting secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners escapes the martyr's crown, which Barrow pictured him as willing to wear if needs be and goes, to quote Borah, "back to Denver."

It came from the lips of twelve Idaho farmers, plain, blunt, unadorned men, representatives of the sturdy stock that is the backbone of this country, who simply were not convinced that the State had connected Haywood "by his own acts and declarations," to use the language of the court, with the murder of Frank Steunenberg, that's all.

That was the verdict, and the how and the why and the wherefore of it, and after eighteen months of imprisonment, closing with eleven nerve-racking weeks of legal legislation, Haywood walked out of the courtroom free, light-hearted, light-footed, with a bounding heart, tears of joyous satisfaction in his eyes and a luminous gladness on his face. It meant to him victory, not merely personal, but, in his view, for organized labor over the hated capitalist oppressors of scores of years. Not only the man, but the cause has triumphed. It was a stern heart that could not meet his in that exciting moment of liberation and sympathize with the emotion that filled him to the brim.

It was after being out for twenty-one hours that the jury, which at first had been divided 8 to 4, and then seemed deadlocked at 10 to 2, finally came to an agreement shortly after the first faint streaks of the coming day showed gray above the giant hills which wall Boise to the north and east. The weary, snow-bearded old balliff, who had kept an all-night vigil before the door of the jury room, was startled into action by an imperative knock from within.

Events moved rapidly enough after this, and when at last the participants in the trial had gathered in the courtroom at a few minutes before 8 o'clock the white envelope handed by the foreman to the judge was torn open and the verdict read. It came as an electric thrill to the prisoner, to his counsel, to the attorneys for the State and to the small group of heavy-eyed newspaper men and court officials who had been summoned from beds but lately sought or from offices whose sleepless waiting had marked the night.

The rumors which spread so rapidly and frequently throughout the night and which were as unreliable as such rumors always are, were generally to the effect that a majority of the jurors had voted for conviction. Some were even so radical as to say that the only difference of opinion existing in the jury was as to the degree of guilt. The apprehension of disagreement spread even to members of the defendant's counsel, and when to this feeling were added the rumors of an adverse decision continually beat about their ears during the night, there could be found their joy as the verdict was read.

Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, who had made a plea describing the case as a struggle of "class against class," who had defiantly told the jurors that they were hostile to his client, and had had their minds poisoned continually beat about their ears had entered the courtroom with the mood of his speech still upon him, but as Haywood was freed and as the jury was passing out he vied with the other members of counsel and with the prisoner himself in thanking with many evidences of sincerity the twelve citizens of Idaho who had heard the evidence and rendered their unalterable opinion.

Inquiry among the jurors after their dismissal revealed some of the elements entering into their decision. Samuel D. Gilman, the last man to be won over to the defense, declared that a majority of the men seemed convinced that the general tone of the court's instructions indicated that the defendant should be freed. Finley McBean, who voted consistently for acquittal from the first declared that the judge's instructions seemed to settle all doubt as to the course he should take.

Juror James Robertson, the good-natured Scotchman, at whose house here in Boise Gov. Steunenberg boarded for more than two years, said:

"I couldn't reconcile myself to voting any other way than with the defense from the first, and I think that under the law and the evidence there was nothing else for us to do. The last fellow who held out against acquittal belongs to the same fraternal organization that I do. There was a talk of a compromise on a second degree verdict, but we wouldn't stand for that—in either had to be acquitted or I would have stayed there."

DRUNKEN SON SHOTS TO DEATH AGED FATHER

No Excuse for Crime Except Father Protested Against Son's Driving Tired Mule.

Owensboro, Ky., July 28.—Crushed by grief, Leon McDaniel, a young man about thirty years old, shot and killed his father this morning at his home in this county. His father, William McDaniel, sixty years of age, was manured with his son for driving a mule, which was very tired. The son told his father he would kill him if he spoke to him again. The aged man made a remark of reproach to his son, and the young man pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired.

The bullet entered McDaniel's head and he died in a few hours. The slayer, going to Owensboro on the train and surrendered to the Sheriff. He was in a drunken stupor, but had sense enough to realize that it would be better for him in jail than to remain at home.

Dr. M. H. Du Bose Lectures.

Last Sunday was a day long to be remembered by the members of Hartford Epworth League and their friends. The occasion was an address or lecture by Dr. M. H. Du Bose, Editor of the Epworth Era and General Secretary of the League, of Nashville, Tenn.

The services were held at the court house in order to give room for the large audience. A large representation from the league at Beaver Dam was present by special invitation. The musical program, which was well rendered and enjoyed by everyone, was arranged by Miss Carrie Lewis. Dr. Du Bose was introduced by Rev. J. A. Lewis, and for more than an hour he held the close attention of the large audience, as he portrayed in beautiful and eloquent manner the objects and aims of the Epworth League. He also preached in the evening, the theme being the trial and crucifixion of Christ. These who failed to hear this charming sermon, missed a rare treat. The visit of Dr. Du Bose, who is not only one of the greatest pulpit orators of the South, but a man of God who gets into close touch with all whom he meets, has been of vast benefit to the local leagues and a blessing to Hartford. We hope he can come to see us again soon.

Death of Mrs. Maples.

Mrs. Tom Maples died quite suddenly and unexpectedly at her home in East Hartford at 3:15 o'clock Monday night. Mrs. Maples had been ill for about three weeks of malaria fever but her condition was not considered serious during the time and was thought to be improving. She called for a drink of water and her mother gave it to her. When she lay back from a sitting position, to which she was raised to receive the water, she gasped and died in a few minutes without uttering a word.

She is survived by a husband and four small boys the youngest being not more than four or five years old. After funeral services conducted by Rev. Baker, of Beaver Dam, at Beulah church Buda, Tuesday at 3 o'clock her remains were interred in Beulah cemetery.

J. J. TILFORD, FORDS- VILLE, HURT IN WRECK.

His Engineer was Attempting to Make a Flying Switch.

The passenger train between Irvington and Fordsville was in a wreck while trying to make a switch at Fordsville Thursday night of last week. One car was also wrecked, and Conductor J. J. Tilford was injured. The line is a branch of the Henderson route and makes connection with the L.C. at Fordsville.

The train had arrived at Fordsville and while trying to make a flying switch, the line of cars humped into the engine, injuring Tilford and destroying the car. The flying switch is considered one of the most dangerous features in railroading and a moment's hesitation is liable to cause trouble.

The engine started down the track and had the cars attached. Tilford was on the first car and as it began to pull the pin and he, the engine man ahead and take the switch, and pass on to the spur track leading to the turn table. The brakeman was to follow the switch, letting the cars pass and go or down the main track. The engine was to be turned on the turntable and get in front of the car and proceed back to Irvington.

The conductor pulled the coupling pin, but the cars were going at such a rate of speed the switch couldn't be thrown in time and they ran into the engine, tearing up the car completely and wounding Tilford, who had run to the middle of the car when he saw it had failed to take the main track. Tilford was injured about the head and shoulders and it is thought that internal injuries will develop. The car was demolished, but the engine and tender were not injured to any extent.—Owensboro Inquirer.

FOR THE BUSY READER.

An enemy of George Asstake, a farmer near Jasper, Ind., placed a screw driver in a bundle of wheat and when it passed through the separator the machine was wrecked.

It is said that labor men throughout the country, since the acquittal of Haywood at Boise, have become more incensed than ever against President Roosevelt for his "undesirable citizens" letter.

A baggage man in the union depot in St. Louis gave a trunk its usual fling. It was full of dynamite and the handler and another man were seriously injured in the explosion which followed.

The unknown man recently arrested at Paris has been identified as Newton Miricle, who shot and fatally wounded his wife at Middleboro, Mich. He was taken into custody because of his queer actions.

Sentence against the Standard Oil Company for violating the Interstate-commerce law by using illegal railroad rates will be pronounced in the United States District Court at Chicago Saturday by Judge Landis.

"Tallow Dick" Combs, who has been an important witness for the Commonwealth in the cases growing out of the killing of Goebel, was killed by a train near Georgetown Wednesday.

The funeral of the late United States Senator Edmund W. Pettus took place at Selma, Ala., from his residence. Interment was in Live Oak cemetery, where less than two months ago his late colleague, Senator John T. Morgan, was laid to rest.

The United States Government began suit against the so-called Powder Trust in the United States Circuit Court at Washington, D. C. The Government asks that the Du Pont Company, of Delaware, be restrained from exercising control over the subsidiary companies.

The bill making the entire State of Georgia prohibition was passed by the House Wednesday with two slight amendments, which will be concurred in by the Senate, and the Governor is certain to sign the measure when it reaches him. The new bill is drastic in its regulations and prohibits the sale of liquor in the State.

"Wivo" Out of Business.

For about six months Mr. B. F.

Saunders, who runs a restaurant on Market Street, has been handling a drink called "Wivo," at first labeled "Wivo." It is put up at Paducah in bottles resembling the ordinary beer bottle. In fact, in looks unfile opened, it can scarcely be told from the genuine article, so we have been told.

The taste however is disappointing. Still, because the deception is so good and the drink always cold, it sold well. Several times the members of grand juries have been impartured by local option people, to indict the seller, under the idea that the drink contained alcohol, but after they had been allowed too drink of it, they always pronounced it a soft drink. A few days ago an agent of Uncle Sam appeared on the scene and compelled Mr. Saunders to pay back taxes to the government for what he had sold, and informed him that, if he continued to sell, he must take out license, as an analysis of the drink made at Washington showed it contained 24 per cent. alcohol. Mr. Saunders decided to take out license for further sales and will be back on and back to the house.

HARGIS AT LAST QUILTS DEMOCRATIC COM.

Says he has Been Vindicated and Desires to Retire to Private Life--Newspapers Scored.

Frankfort, Ky., July 28.—Presented by a majority of the Democratic newspapers of the State, James Hargis, member of the Democratic State Central Committee from the Tenth Congressional district has at last resigned his position in a letter addressed to Chairman McQuay from Lexington today.

For over a year the newspapers and prominent members of the party have been demanding that Hargis resign.

However, the resignation of Hargis came as a surprise here as he attended the meeting of the committee today for the first time in a great while and while here gave no intimation that such action was contemplated.

Hargis left Frankfort for his home in Breathitt county to-night and while in Lexington addressed the letter of resignation in which he says that since his character has been vindicated by an acquittal of all the criminal charges against him he feels that he can resign with credit to himself and to the party.

Hargis says that during his service of nine years on the committee no objection has been raised by any Democrat who has never hated

ON WHALE'S IMMENSE BACK

Crew of The Famous Bark
Greyhound Rides.

Thrilling Experience in Midecean of the Daring Soldier Who Hunts Whale For Living

The famous old whaling bark, Greyhound, after sixty years' service hunting whales in the western ground of the North Atlantic Ocean, sailed north again a few days ago from New Bedford, Mass., for another four year cruise.

On the last previous cruise the Greyhound took about $500,000 worth of oil. This time it is hoped she will do even better than that. As told, during the sixty years the Greyhound has been engaged hunting whales she has secured a harvest of oil and whalebone worth $1,250,000. And as Capt. Antone Edwards believes that the old whaling vessel is as good as the day she was launched, the prospects are that she will duplicate all past performances, including profits and a most remarkable series of adventures, before going the way which all good ships must sooner or later go.

Twentieth century methods and most up-to-date ways of whale hunting have never had any influence on the Greyhound. She belongs to the old school; and her owners and navigators have scorned to let her belong to any other.

"She's all right," was the announcement of Captain Edwards just before sailing. "Copper sheathing worn some what in places, but it is good for five more years, when the ship will be due for a good overhauling. Then she will be good for another fifty years."

"Well, no, there was not so many incidents during the last cruise," he continued. "We had pretty much good weather—sometimes too good—not wind enough to sail."

"Adventures? Plenty of them. The log of the Greyhound is just full of them, but I don't consider them incidents. Adventures are different."

"About two years ago we went short of water on passage from the River Plate of the Cape Verde Islands. It took us thirty days. There were calms and calms. At the end we had only half a glass of water a day, and we were glad to raise the African coast."

"Then there was last August. When we were three days out of Faval we went into a hurricane. There were big seas, and we were rolling our boats under. I cut holes in each boat so that the water would run out. I had never seen such big seas before and never want to see them again. An Italian steamship came along during the storm, and afterwards she reported that we must have sailed, as we seemed to be in bad luck. But that Italian did not know the Greyhound, evidently. We were right through all right, as you can see."

Perhaps the last part of the voyage was the most trying. We sailed from St. Enstasia, Dutch West Indies, for home on March 19. We had gale from March 19. We had gale after gale from early in the month, some days drifting under her poles, many miles out of our course. One day we lost thirty-eight miles that way. We had provisions for thirty days, and it took us thirty-seven days to make Nantucket South Shoals. We lived on hardback and tea for the last week of the trip; not a pleasing diet when you are trying to beat into a head wind."

The log of the Greyhound tells of one adventure which Capt. Edwards failed to mention probably through reasons of modesty. On May 21 of last year a big sperm whale was sighted and the harboard boat, in charge of the captain, went off to get him. The lance line was made fast by the main snuer, but a big sea came along lifted the boat high on its crest and tossed it high and dry on the back of the whale. There was a big bang. The boat was stove in astern where Capt. Edwards sat, and the crashing of the whale threw all six men into the water.

The captain moved along to the bow and cut the lance line with his sheath knife just as the astonished whale made another dive. All hands clung to the boat until picked up by another boat hastily sent from the ship to their assistance.

The Greyhound's last cruise lasted four years. Of the 1,625 barrels of oil filled during the voyage all but 700 were disposed of before the ship reached her home port New Bedford, to be refitted for a new case.

The old whaling town of New Bedford is modern now to a certain extent. It has trolley cars well paved streets and a population of 80,000, of whom 10,000 are Portuguese. But the quaint old streets which lead down the hill to Center wharf, where the Greyhound lies up when she is at home are still the haunts of the old whalers, mostly men of sixty and seventy years, each still able, if need be, to fire a thirty-five-pound bomb gun without hesitancy. They and the Greyhound are among the few survivors of an age, now little more than a memory, when the whalers of the good old school were in their prime and glory.

GREATEST BASE BALL GAME OF THE SEASON.

Boston National League Team
Surely Coming to Central City August 7th.

It was advertised throughout Western Kentucky that the Boston National League Base Ball Team would play at Central City the 6th of last April, but just before the team left its training quarters at Thomasville, Ga., one of their players, Harry Dotan, died and all of their southern exhibition games were cancelled so that the team could attend the funeral of their comrade. But Manager John T. May of the Central City Athletic Association, met President George B. Dovey of the Boston team, at Cincinnati, when he played there a few weeks ago and accompanied him to St. Louis and arranged for him to bring his team to Central City on the 7th of August as he goes from Cincinnati to St. Louis and this high class base ball attraction will without any sort of doubt be seen in Central City on Wednesday, August 7th.

This is an unprecedented affair in the history of base ball. Never before did a big league team stop to play a game in a small town or a larger one, either. In this section of the country, Central City will enjoy the distinction of being the only town South of the Ohio river that ever played a National League team during the championship season and the people living in this section of Kentucky should not fail to avail themselves of this single opportunity to see such a big ball game. Arrangements will be made with the railroads for special rates and excursion trains for those who cannot be accommodated by the regular trains. The game will be called at 2 o'clock p. m.

HEAVEN AND HELL ARE LOCATED

Dr. Copp, of Washington D. C., Knows Their Whereof.

The Wicked Land in the Sun, a Hot Place for Sure and Forever.

Our abiding place in the future has been located. Those of us who are bad in this world will be furnished free transportation to the sun, and those of us who are good may select a place in heaven to suit ourselves. If we want to rest in the heaven of heavens where God has His throne, we will select Alcyone, but all the universe except the sun, which is hades, is heaven for those who follow God's commandments.

So says Rev. Zed Hertzell Copp, President of the Highway Sunshine Gospel Union, who has followed the announcement of his startling discovery that the sun is the home of the Imp of Darkness, by the declaration that Alcyone, which he describes as the central planet of all known space, around which all other planets revolve, is the footstool of the Creator, where His throne has been erected. He makes a statement, he says, after a research covering fourteen years.

But heaven is not confined to one particular planet, according to Mr. Copp. "Washington, this country, the whole world is heaven," he says, "and we live in it. But it is not the heaven that God wishes it to be. Everything—the animals, the birds, the fishes—are in unison with God; only we, the human beings are in revolt. As soon as we comply with God's will this earth will be a complete heaven."

From Alcyone, says the reverend doctor, the Almighty rules the universe and directs the destinies of man and womankind.

The multitudes of planets which revolve around Alcyone he describes as magnificent gardens, wherein dwell angels and those over whom they preside. A state of lethargy exists among the inhabitants, and everywhere peace and quiet reign supreme. "In heaven," said the minister "there are palaces of brick and stone. But the solidity implied by the ingredients counts for naught, since they are transparent. The inhabitants may look through the houses of their neighbors. They can observe every action of the neighbor, and the thoughts of one are the thoughts of the other. But in heaven everybody is good. There is no such thing as rebellion, insubordination and reticence.

"Paul says he was taken up to the third heaven and heard things not lawful for him to utter. He could not utter them because he could not find human expression strong enough to convey his ideas.

"There are three heavens. First, the natural heaven, the canopy above the earth; second, paradise; third the heaven of heavens, or abiding place of Jehovah.

"Scientists know that there is a large planet or star around which all other stars and planets, including our own solar system, revolve. That is the star Alcyone, of the first magnitude as to size, and said to be thousands of times larger than any other known body.

"In this place the inhabitants are being of the highest rank, but little lower than divinity itself clothed with majesty, power and learning. Earthly kings surrounded themselves with the best and noblest of their subjects. Is it a violent supposition that the divine king does likewise in the position of his court?"

For the second heaven, commonly called paradise, Mr. Copp said he had no precise location.

Alcyone is the most brilliant star of the group known as the pleiades, which is in the constellation Taurus, and is quite conspicuous on winter evenings about 24 degree north of the equator. Alcyone is of a greenish hue and has a magnitude of 3.0. This is the star which is supposed by Madler, German astronomer to be the central sun in reference to which our sun, its planets and all other known systems are moving, perhaps revolving within some almost incomprehensible period of time, but as a general proposition, the hypothesis of and central sun is considered too daring by astronomers.

The distance of Alcyone from the earth is immeasurable and its size may only be conjectured, but that it is a vast, flaming mass is conceded. And it also is probable that a ray of light from Alcyone will take at least 100 years to reach this earth.

For some unknown reasons there were anciently said to have been seven pleiades although only six were conspicuous then, as now. To the Greeks the constellation was important, since with its helical rising in May navigation began, and with its setting in November it was supposed to close. The pleiades also served as guides for the sailors.

NIGHT RIDERS ARE CONDEMNED

By the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association.

Urges Observance of the law and are Ready to Assist in Prosecution Marauders.

The Executive Committee of the Planters' Protective Association of Trigg county, has come out in public utterance in which they condemn strongly the depredations which have been committed by night riders so frequently during the past few weeks in their own and adjoining counties, and call upon all good citizens to put forth every effort to apprehend and bring to justice the guilty parties. The card is as follows:

"The undersigned members of the Trigg County Executive Committee of the Planters' Protective Association take this means of calling attention to the sad occurrences recently reported, and of defining their attitude in relation to the matter. This committee, representing the association, has never counseled, aided or abetted lawlessness in any form. It feels that in the present state of public feeling the association has been charged with all the ill incident to agitated conditions and the good it has accomplished not fully credited.

We realize that in revolutionary periods it is about natural that outbreaks and violence should occur, caused by the remembrance of wrongs suffered. As a body trying earnestly to present the true interests of the association, we have viewed with much regret the acts of violence reported from time to time, not only in our own county, but in others as well. While the destruction of property is lamentable, all acts of personal violence are more to be deplored, neither of which commends itself to our favor.

We have no knowledge of who is guilty nor have we any control over them. But we call upon all good citizens to unite with us in an effort to discountenance same and to prevent a repetition of similar acts, the tendency of which is toward the subversion of law and order and our own good name. We call upon all in a serious manner, if any friends of the association are engaged in these acts of personal violence, to cease same in order that the Planters' Protective Association may not be brought into disrepute. We believe that such things are inimical to our best interests, and we fear that in many instances private enmity has been manifested, and if continued great evil will result.

We realize that our people have suffered many wrongs, but the part of true manhood should be to bear all with patience and trust to the association to relieve you in time. The work it has already done is but an earnest of what it can do in the future, and what will do it is continued highest principles of honor and good citizenship. True friends of the association should look to its interest, which surely does not lie in a total disregard of the personal as well as the property rights of citizens.

For the good of the association and the peace of the community, we hope that we will not be shamed further by hearing that private houses have been shot into, that women and children will be terrorized and their innocent lives endangered. Good citizenship may be a flexible and forgiving quality, but it cannot endure thus.

City Without Railroad.

We are apt to think that a great city, containing the comforts and elegancies of modern life, cannot exist without railroads at its gates. Bogota, the capital of the Republic of Columbia, is an exception. Having a population of 125,000, fine residences, excellent schools and colleges, literary, artistic and musical societies, club polo, tennis, balls, dinners, elegant society that knows the Parisian fashions, Bogota lies on a plateau which railroads fail to reach. There is, however, a short railroad on the plateau itself. But to get to it by the most

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies by analysis. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftentimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The Favorite Prescription is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating, nerve and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuritis, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

used route one must journey two and a half days on muleback. Another way of approach, reducing the mule ride to seven or eight hours, requires several days of river navigation. But the railroad is coming, although late—Youth's Companion.

Tough on George.

"Say you will be mine" he pleaded. But she hesitated.

"You have been very kind to me," she said.

"And I swear to devote the balance of my life to you," he protested.

"Your devotion has always been marked," she assented. "I admit that you have paid every possible attention. You discovered my favorite flower and kept me supplied with it all last winter. It was very thoughtful of you."

"It was my love—"

"And sweets, George. You seldom let me be without them. It must have taken a great deal of your salary to—"

"Pray don't speak of salary. Luella, how can one think of money when trying to anticipate your wishes? It was, and is, my greatest pleasure."

"You have seemed to think that I was too fairy-like to walk anywhere, no matter how short the distance," she went on.

"A ransom, dearest—you'll let me call you 'dearest'—a ransom is a small matter when one enjoys your company. How could I ask you to walk when I knew you preferred to ride?"

"I appreciate it all, George," she said. "I appreciate it fully. And I like you, George. I—I perhaps I could truthfully say I—but I can't marry you. I have thought the matter over calmly and seriously, and feel that I could not be happy with you."

"Why not?" he asked, anxiously.

"You are to extravagant."—Tit-Bits.

The Local Newspaper.

The local newspaper should be found in every home. No child should grow up ignorant who can be taught to appreciate the home paper. It is said to be the stepping stone of intelligence. Give your children a foreign paper which contains not a word about any person, place or thing which they have ever seen or heard of and how could you expect them to become interested? But let them have a home paper, read of people they meet and know of places with which they are familiar, and soon an interest is awakened which increases with every arrival of the local paper after their lives and they become intelligent men and women a credit to their ancestors; and strong in the knowledge of the world.

NEW RULES SELLING ALCOHOL.

The Denatured Kind May be Sold by Grocers Now.

Farm Distilleries May Produce the Fuel From Any Fermentable Matter.

Amended denatured Alcohol regulations have been issued by the commissioner of International revenue to take the place on September 1 of the regulations heretofore issued and are made necessary by the act passed by the last Congress.

Under the new regulations, in addition to denatured warehouses on distillery premises, central denaturing warehouses may be constructed at such points as business interests may require and alcohol may be transferred from denaturing warehouses by means of tanks or tank cars to consumers.

Manufacturers using completely denatured alcohol are not required to swear to application for permit, and a permit when secured continues in force until revoked, and retail dealers in denatured alcohol are not required to keep a record of any kind.

Industrial or farm distilleries may produce alcohol from anything that contains fermentable matter. At their distilleries one room may be used as a combination distillery, warehouse and denaturing warehouse.

Industrial distilleries are divided into two classes. In the first class are placed distilleries of a surveying capacity of fifty proof gallons or less of spirits in twenty-four hours. At such distilleries storekeepers' gauges are not regularly assigned unless the collector certifies that in his opinion the presence of an officer at a particular distillery is necessary.

Distilleries of the second class are those that produce more than fifty gallons and less than 100 gallons of distilled spirits daily. At distilleries of this class an officer will be regularly assigned unless the collector shall certify that the distillery can safely operate without one.

Manufacturers using specially denatured alcohol are under the new regulations relieved from keeping a record of denatured alcohol used.

Proprietors of industrial distilleries are manufacturers recovering alcohol in manufacturing processes where but a small quantity of alcohol is denatured are not required to provide themselves with denaturing material rooms or to have the denature regularly tested, but may procure approved authorized denaturants either from central denaturing warehouses or from distilleries at which regular denaturing warehouses are established.

The provision of the old regulations whereby druggists, who are also dealers in beverage alcoholic liquors, but who do not sell such liquors to be consumed on their premises, is extended to grocers. The effect of this provision will be to permit druggists or grocers who do not operate saloons to sell denatured alcohol.

"We never repent of eating too little," was one of the ten rules of life of Thomas Jefferson, President of the United States, and the rule applies to every one without exception during this hot weather, because it is hard for food, even in small quantities, to be digested when the blood is at high temperature. At this season we should eat sparingly and properly. We should also help the stomach as much as possible by the use of a little Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia, which will rest the stomach by digesting the food itself. Sold by all druggists.

Lo, the Poor Chapron.

"If being a successful chapron consists in having a good time, then I'm a dismal figure," said a popular young married woman to a New York Sun reporter. "If on the other hand, it is looked upon as a sort of supplementary course to matrimony to train a woman to be unselfish, then I'm sure I have profited by experience."

"It was only the other day that my husband and my brother were talking about the way I had changed. They said I seemed like another girl. They used to have all manner of trouble looking after me, seeing that I had on my coat, picking up my handkerchief and gloves, etc. According to their account, I was the most helpless of creatures, and I'm sure I think I was.

"The change began with my duties as a chapron. When I became a sort of general hat coat rack for the party I was chaperoning, and my lap the receptacle of gloves, fans, bouquets and everything else they didn't feel like taking around with them, I soon learned to be careful with my own belongings. The training was beneficial, that I'm not denying, but I do say it was not what every one would enjoy."

"I enjoyed it, yes, I think, because I am, in love with my husband. I don't care a row of pins for another man's attentions. Of course, I wish to be treated with consideration; that is just where the fun in being a chapron sometimes falls short; the girls and the men let me see too plainly that I am the one they care to please. Still I much prefer that kind of man to the one who considers it his duty to get a flirtation with the chapron."

"I always want the men to be in love with the girl who is under my care. I'm in love myself, and I love to watch others with the same complaint."

Those who have stomach troubles, no matter how slight, should give every possible help to the digestive organs, so that the food may be digested with the least effort. This may be done by taking something that contains natural digestive properties—something like Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Kodol is a preparation of vegetable acids and contains the very same juices found in a healthy stomach. It digests what you eat. Sold by all druggists.

Byrd's Searchlight.

A Floyd Byrd's reply to special Judge W. B. Moody, published in yesterday's Courier-Journal, is a telling exposition of the last chapter in a long and successful conspiracy of assassins and politicians to whip justice. Calm and temperate in tone, careful, thorough crushing in facts, Mr. Byrd's explanation of the reasons that forced the attorneys for the prosecution of James Hargis to retire from the case at Sandy Hook is a conclusive and—to one who may be ignorant of the history of the conspiracy—startling disclosure.

It illuminates Judge Moody in, to say the least an admirable attitude. However honorable may have been his motives however desirous he may have been to do his duty as an upright judge, his course in this case leaves him a record which he will never be able to justify to a fair-minded public, though he spend the rest of his days in the attempt. He may be all that his friends claim that he is, but it is true he is so unfortunate as to have been confronted with a duty in the performance of which no one could have more completely played into the hands of the gang at the head of which is the man whose boast is that he does as he "damn pleases" with the law, and who, with the action of Judge Moody in relieving him of this last of murder charges against him, has made good that boast.

So closes this blackest story of Kentucky assassination and politics. It is a chapter of murder after murder, all pointing to one source of inspiration; of the machinery of the law consistently directed to the end of shielding those indicated by the evidence as the source of that inspiration terminating with their discharge and the imprisonment of a couple of their humble hired tools.

Mr. Byrd's exposition of the final chapter of this story, miserable as he shows that chapter to be, shows it no more miserable than many another chapter that preceded it, notably that in which Carnes played his part so faithfully and so notoriously, on which, by the way, Mr. Byrd flashes a new finger of light in his statement. Indeed, from first to last during the progress of this story, every page of it has sought to create in certain quarters the impression that he exercised special influence among the high officials whose duty it is to punish instead of protect breakers of the law. He knew what he was talking about.

It is all a wretched and astounding story. But it is not the only story that to-day advertises the shame of Kentucky as the worst governed State in the union.—Courier-Journal.

Neighbors got Fooled.

"I was literally coughing myself to death, and had become too weak to leave my bed; and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alive; but they got fooled, for thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I took just four one dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Unenphier, of Grovertown, Stark County, Ind. "This King of cough and cold cures, and healer of throat and lungs, is guaranteed by all druggists, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free."

A Valuable Lesson.

"Six years ago I learned a valuable lesson," writes John Pleasant, of Magnolia, Ind. "I then began taking Dr. King's New Life Pills, and the longer I take them the better I find them." They please everybody. Guaranteed at all drug stores 25c.

Contrast the efforts to convict Caleb Powers with those to convict Jim Hargis.

The Republicans of Louisville have nominated a good ticket, and should elect it with all ease.

As the Republican nominee for Governor, Hon. Augustus E. Willson grows more popular every day.

A "government of the people, for the people and by the people," is all that the citizens of Kentucky ask.

As long as the war between Japan and the United States can be confined to the yellow press the mortality list will be small.

The Hartford Herald says in its news columns that Gov. Beckham is being mentioned as probable candidate for President. Bah! Nauseating doesn't describe it.

In a written opinion which is a veritable stump speech on the Goebel assassination, Judge Robbins Wednesday vacated the bench as Special Judge to try Caleb Powers.

The reform administration at Louisville has already brought the police force to such a state of perfection that they arrest themselves for being caught in saloons.

Laborers on the Panama Canal are said to be afflicted with a disease called "yaws." For years one of those laborers, Hon. A. C. S. Blackburn, has been afflicted with "yaws."

In selecting a new set of officers for the city, citizens of Louisville should have no trouble in discriminating between hypocrisy and reality. If the Democracy heads her ticket with a man who has accepted a stolen of flee.

We again warn our city council that, unless the money voted to construct a sanitary sewerage system is used for that purpose, the people of Hartford are likely to reap a harvest of death from typhoid fever; if not from cholera.

If the Democratic party which has been in power at Frankfort for almost eight years, had done its duty by the school fund, the teacher who is receiving only $10 per month should be getting $75, with a proportionate increase for all others.

Judge James Hargis was a conspicuous and influential member in attendance at a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee, held at Frankfort one day this week. It is said he belongs to the Beckham faction of the Committee.

Judge Hager, the Democratic candidate for Governor and who is posing as a prohibition representative, is the same Hager who was shown to have accepted a $2,000 check from the whiskey interests for campaign purposes, while chairman of the campaign committee.

The most curious feature of the testimony to be given at the Hargis trial one which ought to start a roaring laugh from the Big Sandy to the Purchase, is the proposition of the present Democratic machine of Kentucky to lead reform movement with pure elections and temperance as the leading features.

Senator Foraker voices the sentiments of Kentucky Republicans when he calls for a square deal in the matter of tariff revision. We do not want to go blindfold into the business of tariff disturbance. Let us have a bit of particulars, and see whose ox is to be gored. When this is done about two thirds of the reform talk will cease.

In Breathitt county, yea most anywhere, Jim Hargis, who had Goebel's promise that he would be protected and likewise now has Beckham's promise, and recent occurrences indicate more, does as he damn pleases. In Louisville, Beckham's recent appointee, Mayor Bingham, says Democrats who don't like the way he does things may go to hell. Mark the prediction. Going to hell and "doing as damn please" will some day cease to be countenanced even in Kentucky.

It is a noticeable custom of two by four Democratic politicians and like political organs to preface their utterances exploiting the 7 years of Democratic rule in Kentucky with something about like this: "Coming into power following the brief and disastrous reign of Taylor, who left behind him a depleted public treasury, and the affairs of every department of the State government in a chaotic condition". If such conditions existed, Goebel, Beckham, Hager and their followers, who unlawfully took from Taylor, Marshall and Day the offices of Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Treasurer to which they were elected are responsible for same.

Since our publication last week of an article signed, "Old Teacher," reproduced from the Central City Republican, on the question of Kentucky school per capita, we have been looking up Ohio County records along the same lines as used in that article with reference to Muhlenberg county. The recapitulation of the Assessors books for Ohio County year 1897, shows total taxable property valuation to be $3,158,180, and number of school pupils to be 7,912. In 1907, the taxable property valuation was $4,743,732, and number of children 7,350. This shows a loss in pupils of 562, and an increase in property value of $1,585,552. An increase of more than 50 per cent. in property valuation and a loss of over 7 per cent. in school pupils. We take it that Ohio county is an average county. Under this showing the increase should be over 2-3 or $2.84 from the amount paid in 1897 under the Bradley administration. This would give to the teachers of Ohio County $5.69, instead of $3.40. Under the circumstances, the man who belongs to a party which has increased the pay of the penitentiary guards from $30 to $75 per month, and failed to do any better for the poorly paid, overworked school teachers, should not only refrain from boasting about what his party has done, but he should cover himself with sack cloth and ashes until he gets a chance to vote a different ticket. This question is loaded, as our Democratic newspaper friends have no doubt realized.

Beckham Appoints Election Commissioners.

Governor Beckham yesterday appointed the state election commissioners. The commissioners are Charles R. McDowell, Democrat, of Danville, and R. Gray Falconer, Republican of Lexington. J. Morgan Chinn, by virtue of his office of clerk of the court of appeals is the other member. The commission will meet in August and name the county election boards.

OHIO CIRCUIT COURT TO CONVENE NEXT WEEK

Fairly Large Docket to be Disposed of in the Three Weeks Term.

The Ohio Circuit Court will convene in regular session next Monday August 5th, with a fairly large docket. This is a three weeks term and as only civil cases are to be tried the docket will probably be completed before the expiration of the term. Sheriff Martin and his deputies have already summoned the jury and many witnesses and everything will be in readiness for business when court convenes.

Circuit Clerk E. G. Barrass reports that his records show 100 old and 15 appearance equity cases on the docket and 44 old and 25 appearance ordinary cases. Of course not all of these will be tried for various reasons.

Probably the most interesting case to be heard at the term is the case of Sharp against the Breckenridge Democrat, a newspaper, and its owners. The defendants have given notice that they will make a motion for a change of venue. This will no doubt be stoutly objected to by the plaintiff and strongly urged by the defendants. The term in toto will probably be quite interesting. Several cases have already been set for trial and they are as follows:

FIRST DAY.

5481 McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., vs. C. G. Kimbley.

5621 B. J. Taylor vs. Joseph McKinley.

5569 Com'th. of Ky. vs. R. Honston Basham.

5569 J. L. Douglas, vs. A. L. Sonthard.

4322 W. E. Porter vs. Jno. A. Reltz & Sons.

SECOND DAY.

583 Ludella France, Admr. vs. I. C. R. R. Co.

5609 Birdie Spinks vs. I. C. R. R. Co.

5374 J. H. Johnson vs. I. C. R. R. Co.

5444 Y. L. Moseley, guar. vs. Chas. D. Brown.

FIFTH DAY.

BUFORD.

July 30.—Mr. Luther King and little children, of Clear Run, were in Buford Saturday evening.

Jim Garrett and wife, of Owensboro, returned home Friday. Mrs. Garrett having been quite sick for two weeks at her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Candiff.

Mrs. Beatrice Lewis, who has been visiting relatives here, returned to Hartford last week.

Mr. John Blair and wife visited J. S. Chinn and wife, of Beda, last week.

Charley Magan left for Kansas City Friday, where his business is needing his attention. He has been visiting his mother and family for several weeks.

Mrs. B. F. Graves returned home Saturday from Rough River Locks, where she has been visiting her sister Mrs. W. P. Yewell, the past week.

Miss Verda Holbrook is visiting in Andersonville, this week.

Mrs. Will Ellis and son, Guy, and Mrs. Mollie Patton and son, Lee, of Heflin, visited John Blair and family the 21st.

Miss Cynthia Warden, of Centertown, is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. M. Hoover.

Miss Early Magan visited her uncle, Mr. Henry Field, and wife the past week, returning home Saturday.

Mr. A. E. Ellis was in Buford Saturday night and Sunday.

G. W. and Leslie Jewell, F. M. Hoover and Miss Cynthia Warden went to Hartford Monday.

Give Powers a Fair Trial.

For the next few weeks, the story of almost the whole country will be fixed on the little town of Georgetown, in Scott county, where Caleb Powers will be on trial for complicity in the murder of James Hargis.

of which he is not guilty.

For seven and a half years, Powers has been wrongfully deprived of his liberty, because Kentucky is under partisan Democratic rule. Three times he has been tried by a prejudiced jury, composed almost entirely of Democrats, and as a result he has been three times convicted—twice given a life term in the penitentiary, and once sentenced to be hanged.

Kentucky justice is a peculiar thing in many respects. James Hargis, a member for the Tenth district of the Democratic State Central committee, accused of planning the murder of three men, who were shot down without warning, even as Goebel was, has been acquitted three times. The three men killed at Jackson were not only injured to James Hargis or his alleged henchmen. They were men going about their usual business and were murdered—one as he was going to see a patient, another as he was preparing to leave Jackson, and another who was settling up his affairs to leave Breathitt county. Yet Hargis was acquitted, although he had been conclusively connected with the planning of the three murders.

Caleb Powers, on the other hand, has been convicted three times because William Goebel was shot from the window of his office. Goebel was trying to take the gubernatorial seat to which Taylor had been elected, honestly and fairly. Goebel's minions controlled the Legislature and he was sure of his success in securing the governorship through the aid of his iniquitous election law.

The people does not palliate the killing of Goebel—it was a cold, cruel and cowardly murder, but Goebel deserved death to a far greater degree than did those men who were murdered. The men who were murdered were not only innocent, but they were also brave.

It is not a square deal to hang Caleb Powers simply because he is a Republican and acquit James Hargis simply because he is a Democrat—Lexington Leader.

THOUGHT HE WOULD RATHER DIE THAN WORK

That's What Luther Dever Imagined but His Mind Has Changed.

Owensboro, Ky., July 30.—Luther Dever, the seventeen-year-old son of Mrs. Dever, on West Fifth street, thought yesterday morning that he would rather die than to go to work.

In the afternoon he thought differently. He would rather go to work than to go through any more sham suicide experiences.

His mother, who is a widow, wanted him to go to work and help earn something for the support of the family. Luther doesn't like work, and he demurred, but his mother and grandmother insisted that he must quit his loafing and seek employment. Luther went up town, presumably to look for a job. He soon returned and lay upon the floor. His grandmother called to him several times and getting no response she went to him and tried to rouse him. Beside him she found a bottle labeled landanum, and a portion of the contents gone.

Luther let off some dying gasps that were alarming, and his grandmother summoned the neighbors. The neighbors summoned Dr. Lambert and then turned their attention to Luther. Before the doctor arrived they had revived him so that he could talk, but he refused to get up and move about as he was urged to do, but closed his eyes and said he wanted to die.

When the doctor arrived he saw that Luther didn't have enough of the poison in him to kill him, and that the boy was not in the condition he pretended to be, but went to work on Luther as if he had taken a half pint of the poison, and soon Luther was feeling real sick, and now he says he would rather work some than to try to die.

A Great Pow-Wow.

It has been the custom of the good people of Ohio county every year to have a social gathering where old friends could meet each other, shake hands and have a day of social enjoyment.

The Improved Order of Red Men have taken advantage of the occasion and on August 17, at the beautiful grounds of the Ohio County Fair Company, will give a grand Pow-Wow or barbecue. They have arranged to have an address by the Great Sachem Mr. Robert Lee Page, of Louisville, Ky. A spectacular street parade, where the Indian in his primitive costume, bowie knives, war clubs and other accoutrements, may be seen.

There will be a big base ball game by the best teams that can be had in the county, foot races, potato races and a number of other amusements to please the fancy of the great crowd expected.

Do not fail to bring the children. We have arranged to have swings, hammocks, croquet, lawn tennis and other forms of amusement to please the young folks and children.

We have arranged to serve a barbecue dinner on the grounds at the small sum of 35c per plate, which we hope will be in reach of all. No admission will be charged, so that everybody, old, little and young—is expected to attend.

Old man, bring your old lady and little ones. Young man, bring your best girl.

Everybody come and enjoy a day with the Red Men.

Notice.

Those parties summoned to appear as petit jurors to serve during the August term of Circuit Court are expected to report next Monday morning, August 5th, instead of August 6th as made to appear in summons by error of stenographer, in striking key 6 instead of key 5. B. C. BARRASS, C. O. C. C.

HANGED HIMSELF FOR A LIVING

Man Could Transform Body
From Lean to Fat.

Imitated a Dead Man Even to Extent of Stopping the Heart Beat.

There died in Paris the other day a man whose life may be said to exemplify perfect all that may be gained in life if a man will but hang to it. That is, it will exemplify this to persons of a particular cast of thought. To others it may as perfectly exemplify all that fails to the mere hanger-on.

"Le Pendu," as he came to be called—his real name was Simon Agneller, and he was born at Solles Ville in 1851—"Le Pendu" made his living by hanging himself. He grew to be one of the best known of music hall artists. Unlike Fregoli, who imitates various personages by sudden changes of clothes, Le Pendu could in a way transform his body and possessed the most curious physical adaptabilities ever known. When a young man he surprised and puzzled the army doctor. As he presented himself for physical examination he appeared as a thin, sparsely-ribbed fellow, almost a skeleton; and before the examination was over he stood in the presence of the army doctor with an enormously inflated abdomen, as if he had dropsy. While the physician was examining this abnormal development, the abdomen retreated, and a big bloated humor suddenly grew on the young man's throat as if he had an immense goitre. He had, apparently, in an instant transformed the swelling from the lower part of his body to his throat. When the examination was over he stood there, a skeleton-like young fellow as before.

His gifts in bodily transformation soon became known all over his native district and he was induced to show himself on the Music Hall stage. For a long time he was known as the skeleton man, though he also exhibited himself as the fat man. His physical transformations did not stop here. He was able to imitate the process of dying and death itself to perfection. Scientists and the members of the various medical faculties often wished to examine his strange faculties, but he constantly refused to divulge the secret of his transformation. When he imitated the state of the dead person he threw himself into a perfect coma. His heart apparently ceased to beat and the most expert physicians are said to have been unable to detect life without success, and even with the aid of the heart could be perceived. The most expert doctors would have declared him dead, and yet in the next instant he would jump up and crack jokes and be as much alive as any one.

His last trick and one which kept audiences spellbound, was when he used to hang himself by the neck with a cord. There was no mere make-believe about it. He would hang himself, or allow himself to be hanged, from a nail in the ceiling, in the presence of a large audience. The rope would fasten around his throat, his muscles would stiffen, and the frightened public would see him go through every one of the phases of a man who was actually hanged. The ghastly spectacle was first exhibited in a cabaret in Montmartre, and, despite its horrors, or rather, on account of them, it had a great success. A story is told that he once played the trick in a hotel where he was stopping. He hung himself from the ceiling after ringing the bell, and when the waiter entered he was horrified by the sight and rushed down to inform the proprietor. Before they returned to the room the man who was supposed to have hanged himself had taken up his valise and met them quietly on the stairs. Although it might have been expected that some day he would hang himself in real earnest, such a calamity never befell him.

He died of a most commonplace illness—the grip—at his home near Toulon, where he had retired after earning a considerable fortune on the stage. He never divulged the secret of how he produced the extraordinary rigidity of the muscles of his neck when he used to perform his feats of hanging, and carried the mystery with him to the grave. Doctors proposed to perform an autopsy on his body to discover his secret, but his family refused to allow it.

Peace Deadlier Than War.
More lives have been lost by accidents on American warships in the past two years than were lost in the war with Spain. Sixty-one officers and men have been killed in 4 years which is many times more than in war of 1898. In the past ten years 325 officers and men have been killed in explosions and other sorts of mishaps on six or eight vessels.

What has been the cause of all of this destruction—carelessness, lack of skill, or defects in the guns or the machinery? A service periodical named the Navy, in an article published before the recent explosion in the turret of the Georgia, intimates that the American war vessels are not quite so formidable as they look. It says there are defects in the guns, in the machinery which carry them. As the war vessels of other nations, however, have had similar or worse mishaps, the defects, if there be any, must be widely extended. Newspapers and public men are not quite so free in the European countries in expressing their views about the armies or navies of their own lands as they are in the United States, and this reticence probably conceals many things which, if disclosed, would disturb the public. Occasionally, however, even in Germany, as seen from two books printed in the past year or two, inside information is divulged about the army and the navy which shows that that greatest of the world's military powers has defects in both of the fighting arms of its service which show that the United States does not stand alone in this unpleasant relation.

But in both army and navy the United States needs a closer approach to perfection than any of the other great nations. Our army is smaller than that of any second-class power of Europe. Although the length of our coast line would render it necessary for us to have as large a navy as England's, we are far behind England in fighting power on the water, and also far behind France. Man for man and ship for ship, we need a better army and better navy than any other country in the world, so as to partly make up in quality what we lack in quantity. The attainments of this standard of excellence should be insisted on by the American people.—Globe Democrat.

HARGIS MAY YET BE TRIED FOR COX MURDER

Judge S. S. Taulbee, Says Appeal
Will be Taken From Moody's
Order Dismissing Him.

S. S. Taulbee, County Judge of Breathitt, to which office he was elected by defeating James Hargis, of feud fame, was in Lexington Friday night, says the Lexington Leader. When asked how the people of Breathitt felt about the action of the court in dismissing Hargis at Sandy Hook, Judge Taulbee said: "Well, I suppose Hargis' friends were glad of it, but the people who stand for justice were disgusted."

Judge Taulbee said that one of the attorneys for the prosecution said to him a few days ago that the fight was not yet over, and Hargis was not yet as safe as he imagined from criminal prosecution for the alleged murder of Dr. Cox. The prosecution will attempt to have the Court of Appeals reverse the action of Judge Moody in dismissing the case because the prosecuting attorneys withdrew.

Judge Taulbee was asked if he thought Judge Hargis would ever be elected to a public office again. "Well," said he, "he may be elected Governor or Attorney General or something like that but not to any office in Breathitt county. Hargis may be like it was in a case over in another county. A man hired some fellows to go down and kill some fellows for him, and the fellows were sent to the penitentiary as accomplices and their employer was sent to the Legislature."

In reply to the question if Hargis could receive a fair trial in Breathitt now, Judge Taulbee said: "Certainly, but there is no use trying him anywhere as long as Beckham is Governor and can appoint the Judge."

White House Bull Dog in Trouble Once Again.

"Pete," the White House bull dog, is in disgrace again, and this time he has literally come to the "end of his rope."

Since his last "man-eating" escapade when he chased a South American diplomat up a tree and incidentally chewed up two or three policemen who went to the aid of the distinguished foreigner, "Pete" has been out on probation. A nice yard, back of the home of a Washington physician, has been his to enjoy, three square meals a day, and all the cats in the neighborhood to worry have been allowed to have satisfied any puppyish. This ought to have satisfied any ordinary dog, but "Pete" has lived too long within range of "his master's voice" to be a mollycoddle pup. He preferred nice, fat politicians and royals to alley cats.

Last Friday a lineman in the employ of one of the telegraph companies dropped down in "Pete's" particular back yard to connect up a wire, but about the only connection he made was the dog's teeth in the calf of his leg. First aid was rendered the injured man, he was sent to his home and to Oyster Bay was telegraphed the news that gave "Pete" the double cross. The lineman procured a stout club, which he intended to break over the dog's back, but so securely and finally has the bull pup been removed from Washington and its environments that even Marshal Collins, with a spyglass and a warrant from the boy Mayor couldn't locate him.

As soon as the President became cognizant that Pete had added another crime to his already long list he ordered Charley, the colored footman, to go over to Washington to secure the dog and convey him to parts unknown. It was at first decided by Mr. Roosevelt that the dog must die, but Archie's pleadings were so urgent that the President reluctantly commuted his sentence to life imprisonment Saturday, and yesterday "Pete," with the stub of his late drooping pitifully, the fire and fury gone out of his eyes, and protruding teeth covered by an extra strong muzzle, and confined in a steel cage, was put aboard a train, and has by this time begun the expiration of his many crimes and misdeeds.

Nerve Sick

If weak, worn-out, nervous, cannot sleep; have indigestion, headache, neuralgia or periodic pains, it is because your nerves are weak. It is the lack of nerve force that makes the stomach, heart, lungs, etc., work imperfectly—become sick. Dr. Miles' Nerve cures the sick when it restores nerve strength, and puts the power behind the organs to do their work.

"Almost three years I suffered from nervousness, indigestion, and palpitation of the heart. I could not eat or sleep with comfort, or walk or talk without suffering. Altogether I was in a bad condition. My doctor did not seem to do me any good. I had tried so many remedies that I did not have much hope of any of them doing me any good. Dr. Miles' Nerve was suggested by a friend. I got relief from the first, and after a few days I felt like a new person. It not only relieved my heart and nerves, but has invigorated my whole system. I am very grateful because since I have stopped using it, I have had absolutely no return of my old trouble."

MRS. HOWARD FORD,
40 Summit Ave., Worcester, Mass.

Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

MONSTOR MAP OF UNITED STATES

Will be Biggest Thing of Kind Ever Known.

Plus Will Tell Almost Everything Except Time
O'Day.

More progress than ever will be made this year on the great map of the country which shows all the surface forms of the land, every hamlet, and every house, excepting where they stand closely together in towns and cities. New sheets will be made this season in thirty-one States and four Territories. The summer field work is all outlined excepting in this State and Pennsylvania. Survey parties are in the field and the work is being vigorously pushed.

No country has ever made such rapid progress with its topographical surveys, area for area, as the United States. Only a little more than a third of our territory is yet surveyed for the purpose of the big map, but this is merely because our land surface, including Alaska, is nearly as large as the whole of Europe. To make us good a map of our domain as that which we can now buy of nearly the whole of Europe we shall have to do nearly as much surveying as all the European Powers have done together. Only four of our States—Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Jersey—have so far been completely mapped, but the maps of several other States will soon be finished.

The maps of these States in which the national survey is being carried on with the largest amount of State co-operation will make the most rapid progress. Thus in Ohio, which contributes very liberally in trained men and money to the topographic work in the State, it is expected that thirteen more map sheets will be completed or far advanced by the end of the present season.

The Fairbanks region along the middle Tanana river, Alaska, where many hundreds of miners are working in the placer fields, is being surveyed in detail and a map of it on a scale of an inch will be published next winter. The survey for a map on the same large scale of the Kasan Peninsula, on Prince of Wales Island, southeast Alaska, is also being made. A large region spreading east and west between the Yukon and Tanana from the International boundary near Dawson to Fairbanks, will also be surveyed for a map on half that scale. Less than half of Alaska is as yet covered even by preliminary reconnaissance surveys, and it is gratifying that such considerable additions are to be made this year to the detailed surveys for maps on a scale large enough to give us a clear geographical picture of these areas.

The United States Geographical Survey for several years past has annually averaged about 35,000 miles of completed topographical surveying. The Bulletin of the American Geographical Society recently said that this is equal to the annual mapping of a State nearly the size of Indiana and greater than Maine or South Carolina. It is an area nearly equal to that of Portugal and as great as that of Switzerland and Denmark combined, yet it is scarcely one one-hundredth of the total area of the United States inclusive of Alaska. The average appropriation for these topographic surveys is about $350,000, and the cost of several years has averaged about $10 a square mile, excepting in States where more detailed work is done.

What Men Want.

The clever, sophisticated girl who is a good sport may be conspicuous. But it will be seen that the clinging girl, with the big melting eyes, in her quiet way is getting the big plums in the marriage game, says Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd, in the New Broadway Magazine. Aunt Laura, who knows the matrimonial jungle like a hawk, has strong convictions upon this point. The charming debutante says: "I'll never be the success mother was, though. I'm not clinging enough. Mother was one of the gentle, soft-voiced, dreamy-eyed white-muslin and blue-ribboned belles and Aunt Laura insists that they are still the winners, in spite of all the slangy, hoydenish modernism one finds among society women to-day. She says that men's tastes haven't changed at all. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, the oak thinks the ivy is the real thing in helpmeets—and man's approval is the whole law for the aspiring debutante. Remember, my dear, I am giving you the gospel according to Aunt Laura, not my own humble ideas. I am a mere sponge, nowadays, busily soaking up worldly wisdom. It's all very amusing, but if one believed it—well, when I believe it, I shall be more like Aunt Laura and less like mother. I hope I'll land on solid ground somewhere between the two.

"Aunt Laura's system worked beautifully with her two daughters. They were hopelessly unattractive, it seems; but she married one to an English lord and one to a millionaire mine owner—all through consistently sticking to her theories.

"They weren't pretty and they weren't clever," she said when she told me about them. "But they were nice-mannered, sensible girls, and I impressed it upon them from the start that they must cling. Men want to be appreciated, not stimulated. Remember that, child. With your face you can take more chances than my poor girl could but do, always, be clever enough to keep the men you meet from suspecting that you are married and settled. You may be as brilliant as your choice or as nature chooses, but it is disastrous for a debutante without a dot to get a reputation for being intellectual, or even witty."

Raising From the Grave.

A prominent manufacturer, Wm. A. Pertwell, of Lacuna, N. C., relates a most remarkable experience. He says: "After taking less than three bottles of Electric Bitters, I feel like one rising from the grave. My trouble is Bright's disease, in the Diabetes stage. I fully believe Electric Bitters will cure me permanently, for it has already stopped the liver and bladder complications which have troubled me for years. Guaranteed at all druggists. Price only 50c."

Automobiles on the Farm.

Western agents of automobile factories assert that if the machines could be secured hundreds of autos could be sold this summer to the farmers of Nebraska and Kansas, says a Lincoln dispatch. As it is the residents of country towns and the farmers are buying more of the benzine-buggies than the cities and there is scarcely a country town in Nebraska in which there are not more automobiles in proportion to population than in Lincoln or Omaha.

The prosperity of western farmers has become an old story, and this prosperity is going to be augmented this year by another big crop of wheat and corn and oats. Most of the farmers in the State could buy a medium priced machine just as a luxury if they wanted it, but the manner in which they have managed their money does not lead to extravagances of that kind.

When a Nebraskan agriculturist adds to his machinery collection he buys only that which will be of use. That is why he is just now turning to the automobile. The favorite farm type is the runabout, largely because of its low first cost. The prudent farmer figures that with good carriage horses bringing $150 to $250 each in the market he is foolish to utilize them in his pleasure jaunts and his journeyings to and from church. If he uses his work horses to go to town or about the country he deducts just that much from their working capacity on the farm. By using an auto he saves the horses fresh for the farm work, he can transact his business quicker and get to the farm in a short time, to his financial betterment.

The employment of the gasoline engine on farms in the pumping of water for stock and in running threshing machinery and grinders and shellers has familiarized him with this type of power and he takes hold of an automobile proposition with interest and enthusiasm.

John Riha, a prominent dealer of Vinings, Ga., says: "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold. There are a dozen people here who have used them and they give perfect satisfaction in every case. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by all druggists.

This Year's Anniversaries.

While we celebrate in Virginia the tercentennial of the establishment of the first successful English-speaking settlement in what is now the United States of America, we are asked to remember also that this is the nine hundredth anniversary of the traditional discovery of America by the Northerners; that it is the four hundredth anniversary of the naming of the continent, as well as of the birth of Alvaro Nunez Cabeza de Baca, who began his explorations in the new world at the early age of twenty; that it is the three hundredth anniversary of the arrival of Ponce de Leon in Nova Scotia, of Henrik Hudson's exploration of the coast of Greenland and of the first planting of the English flag on the coast of Maine. We are further reminded that in 1607 the first separatists from northern England went into Holland in search of religious liberty, thus beginning the movement which thirteen years later carried the Pilgrims to the New England coast in the Mayflower.

Everybody loves our baby, rosy, sweet and warm. With kisses placed on her neck and dimples on her arms, Once she was so thin and cross, used to cry with pain—Mother gave her Cascasweet, now she's well again. Sold by all druggists.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.

Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

STATE FAIR CATALOGUE READY.

Handsomely Illustrated Book Tells of Premiums, Amusement Enterprises, Music, Etc.

The regular edition of the Kentucky State Fair catalogue, printed in three colors and handsomely illustrated, came from the press this week and thousands of copies are being mailed daily from the headquarters of the Fair at Louisville. The preliminary list for the State Fair was issued a month ago. It covered eighty odd pages. The regular catalogue has 152 pages. The classifications in all departments are complete, together with the speed program and an announcement of the big amusement enterprises of the Fair.

There are also eight fine tone views of the new grounds and buildings recently purchased by the State Board of Agriculture as a permanent location for the State Fair. One page is devoted to the description of the balloon race during the Fair, with three views of the balloons in the air. The captive balloon is shown in a large half tone.

There is a page out of Captain Knabenshue in the passenger-carrying airship which is to make daily flights and exhibitions at the State Fair, Sept. 10-21. This is the only passenger-carrying airship in Kentucky or Southern Indiana. The passenger-carrying airship will only make six appearances in this year. Sectional views of the airship are printed for the first time in the State Fair catalogue.

Two pages are devoted to points of interest in and around Louisville, while there is some valuable information on the railroad system and ticket offices, together with the railroad lines.

One of the most attractive views in the book is an illustration of the building of the Kentucky State Fair, which is to be shown in a large half tone. The building is designed by the State Fair Commission and is a fine example of modern architecture.

Anyone desiring a catalogue will be glad to receive it by mail. Write to the Secretary, R. E. Hulse, Louisville.

Hartford College.

More than seven hundred of the teachers of this country received their training in this famous old school. Its students and graduates have won distinction in every honorable occupation of man. The college has been steadily its influence as a world-wide institution for the education of the young. The first term began September 2, 1907. Second term begins November 1, 1907. Catalogues and fees.

Address all communications to L. N. Cox, President Hartford College, Hartford, Ky.

Notice to Road Overseers.

The time limit has expired for overseers and hands to get their roads in order and I shall now have to make my report of their condition.

I will begin my tour of inspection at once and if I find roads in bad condition, I will be compelled to report so.

I am held responsible for the condition of the roads and if any are not now in shape the overseers should begin at once to put them in order. I have been very lenient with everybody on account of the backward season and late crops but now that crop season is nearing an end, the roads should receive attention.

THE FIRST ANNUAL EXHIBITION

MAGAN.

July 23.—A little child of Mr. Jno. W. Woodford died Monday and was buried at Pleasant Hill Tuesday.

Misses Alice and Alice Banglin, of Hartford, are visiting friends and relatives at this place this week.

A large crowd attended the ice cream supper at Beech Valley Saturday night. Come again, friends, when we have another supper.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Midkiff, who visited relatives and friends here last week, returned Monday to their home at Owensboro.

Mrs. Margaret Clements and daughter, Miss Nellie, who spent last week with his daughter, Mrs. H. C. Wright, returned Monday to their home at Owensboro.

Mrs. Bee Brown and children, of Evansville, are the guests of her mother, Mrs. Charlie Johnson, this week. Eliza Moseley and family, of Ralph, were the guests of Mr. John Miller and family Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Coleman, who have been visiting relatives at Centertown for the past two weeks, returned home Saturday.

Wanted.

Can use two good hands at Ford's Mill.

Important Notice.

It is very important that I know, at all times, just where the Ohio county graders are. Hence those using them will please report to me as to their location, and how long they will have to be used in that locality. Please don't fail to comply with the above.

G. A. RALPH,
Road and Bridge Commissioner for Ohio county.

"AFTER-IMAGES."

Many Delusions Intimately Related to This Unfamiliar Law.

There are two kinds of light waves emitted from all objects, color and white waves. Whenever a source of light, as the sun, strikes an object, part of that light is absorbed and part reflected—thrown back. The latter represents such object's "unimposedness." The color blind are never blind to this form of light. A mirror reflects almost all the light that falls upon it. Polished silver reflects 92 per cent of perpendicular rays. Broken surfaces split up such light and so appear dark. The more luminous an object the more intense is its effect upon the retina. Just as two horns affect the ear more keenly than one. The more intense or stimulating a light the quicker is the retina exhausted. It becomes temporarily paralyzed in the cones of such color. Look at the sun, then look away, and you will still see the sun. But its color appears a pale blue, which is the farthest contrast to the yellow-orange of the sun. It is the complementary color. The light of the sun is so intense that it quickly exhausts the yellow-orange cones, leaving those farthest from it (blue, the "complementary" of yellow) least exhausted; hence this after-image of the sun looks blue, actually a pale greenish blue.

A mother was sewing a scarlet gown held in the sunlight by the window. Turning to her child, playing on the floor, she shrieked, believing it was dying. She saw no red in its face, which made it appear corpse-like. Victims, with maddening religious hysteria, pseudo insanity and the attribution of supernatural power are intimately related to this unappreciated law of "after-images."—Edward A. Ayers in Century.

THE LOG JAM.

Quick and Sure Must Be the Workers When It Goes Out.

Log jams are not an abnormal part of the riverman's work, as most people suppose, but a regular incident of the day's business. In the breaking of them the jam crew must be quick and sure. I know of no finer sight than the going out of a tall jam. The men pry, heave and tug sometimes for hours. Then all at once the apparently solid surface begins to crack and settle. The men zigzag rapidly to shore. A crash and spout of waters mark where the first tier is already toppling into the current. The front melts like sugar. A vast, formidable movement agitates the brown tangle as far as you can see, and then with another sudden and mighty crash the whole river bursts into a torrent of motion.

If everything has gone well, the men are all safe ashore, leaning on their pelves, but ready at any instant to hasten out for the purpose of discouraging by quick, hard work and tendency to plug on the part of the moving timbers. I have seen men out of bravo jump from the breast of a jam just as it was breaking down to a floating log ahead, thus to be carried in the sweep and rush far down the river. A single slip meant death.—Stewart Edward White in Outing Magazine.

A Painter's Odd Ways.

Alfred Hunt was at the same time both a very slow and a fastidiously punctilious sketched from nature, a combination which is said to have hastened his end, for he had a block for every hour of the day and every condition of weather, and, overlaid with these, he would often trudge a lengthy distance to his work. He would then start, say, on an incomplete morning effect in sunshine, to be cast aside for a similar subject in shadow if the scene clouded over or for a noonday one directly that hour was reached. It is said that he consequently sometimes carried as many as a dozen varieties of the same view.—St. James' Gazette.

Valuable Conch Shell.

There are evidently a number of mysterious properties about the conch shell in its relation to Indian religious rites and ceremonies that require investigation. For instance, a conch with its spirals twisting to the right instead of to the left is supposed to be worth its weight in gold. Some years ago a conch of that description was offered for sale in Calcutta with a reserve price of a lac of rupees placed on it. It was eventually bought in for £4,000.—Allahabad Pioneer.

THE FARM WOOD LOT.

Lumber Sure to Become More Valuable as Time Passes.

Since wood for every purpose is sure to become more valuable as time passes, it is worth while for the farsighted farmer to see to it now that his wood lot is so handled as to yield the largest possible supply of this slow growing crop.

The following suggestions regarding the management of the farm wood lot have been compiled from the publications of the experiment stations and of the forest service. The farmer should aim to maintain and if possible improve the value of his wood lot while using it. Too often it deteriorates under use. If he cuts the best trees or those which are easiest to work up, he leaves the weed trees, as foresters call them—that is, the useless trees, which crowd out and displace good trees—to reproduce.

One aim should be kept up, and that is to increase the supply of the kinds of trees which it pays best to grow. While a large part of the product of the wood lot will generally be firewood, it will pay the farmer better to grow as large a product as possible of railroad ties, telegraph and telephone poles and saw logs.

A High Quality of Product.

A high quality of product will depend not only upon the kinds of trees, but on the size of the trees. A large tree is worth much more proportionately than a small tree because of the better quality of its product.

The farmer should always see to it that his land is fully stocked.

Before a Tree is Cut.

The farmer should cut his trees so as to benefit the forest. The branching, wide spreading tree, the crooked tree of the tree of a kind which is not likely to prove salable is the best for him to cut when he is getting out his supply of firewood. This gives room for the better trees near by to grow, as well as opening the ground for reproduction. Before a tree is cut it should be noted what trees will take advantage of the cut. Care should be taken in cutting to do as little harm to young growth (often regarded as brush) as possible.

White Oak For Coopersage.

In connection with the use of denatured alcohol for various purposes, the following in regard to tight cooperage is of interest:

An industry more completely dependent upon one species of timber than is tight cooperage would be hard to find. Tight cooperage depends upon white oak, and white oak of good quality. A single defect in a stave or head may cause the loss of the contents of the entire cask. For alcoholic liquors only the best white oak will serve. Stock of this grade is always in demand and commands the highest price. In quantity, oil and these cooperage ranks first. But since this grade is very largely made from timber which will not make stave stock it can in one sense be termed a second grade, though this refers to the stave stock.—H. M. Hale.

Sowing Cabbage Seed.

Cabbage seed should be sown at frequent intervals so that we have a continuous supply of just the right sized plants for some weeks, says a writer in Farm and Fireside. I sow Danish Ballhead late in April and all through May. Surehead or others of the Flat Dutch type somewhat later and Early Whalingstndt even up to the end of June.

MONKEY HELPED TO FISH.

Accompanied His Master and Was Valuable in Landing Catches.

For some years I lived in a small town not far from Rome, and, being very fond of fishing, I was able to indulge in my favorite pastime very often, as the little river abounded in trout, and I had permission to fish about eight miles of it.

The only boat on the lake belonged to a Captain C., who rented a large house with grounds coming down to the lake, and he very kindly allowed me the use of the boat at all times. The captain was perhaps the finest fisherman I have ever seen, an enthusiast at the sport, and was often to be seen in the boat, his page boy rowing him about.

The other occupant of the boat was invariably a monkey that sat stolidly in the stern sheets, but when the captain hooked a fish a monkey was all activity, dandling about the boat in a most excited manner, and as soon as the captain had drawn the fish near enough the monkey, holding on to the gunwale with one hand, would seize the fish and then resume his usual seat.

I never saw the monkey lose a fish, and Captain C. told me that he very rarely did miss one. He never took a landing net with him when the monkey accompanied him.—London Field.

LEGAL TENDER.

The Status of Coin, Bank Notes, Government Notes and Checks.

Unless an agreement is made the only payment known to the law is cash. Primarily cash is gold or silver. Gold is a legal tender for everything. Silver coins (except the dollar) are a legal tender for the amount of $10 only in the minor coins, the five and one cent pieces, to the amount of 25 cents.

There are many kinds of paper money. Only one can be used in making legal tender in all payments, the notes issued by the United States government and commonly called legal tender notes. National bank notes are a legal tender to the government, but are not a legal tender in payment of a debt by one individual to another.

A check is not an absolute payment of an obligation. It is no better than a note, and a note is not money. Most obligations, however, are settled by check. The receiver has a distinct duty to perform. He must present the check within a reasonable time to the bank on which it is drawn. Should he carry it in his pocket for several months and in the meantime the bank should fail he would be the loser.—New York Press.

Henry Hudson.

Beyond the fact that Henry Hudson was English nothing is known of his birth. In 1607 Hudson sailed from London in a tiny vessel—the crew consisted of ten men and a boy—to discover the Northwest passage. On this voyage the navigator passed the eightieth degree of latitude. Two years later Hudson sailed for North America and discovered the Hudson river, up which he sailed 150 miles. In 1610 Hudson sailed in an English ship named the Discovery and discovered Hudson strait and Hudson bay, where he wintered. The crew mutinied and set Hudson, his son John and seven infirm sailors adrift in a boat. Nothing has ever since been heard of the great sailor who gave his name to New York's river.

Evolution in Lighting.

The candle and lamp, the gaslight, the electric light—these are the steps which mark the development of the lamp. And how marvelous a growth it is! How great the triumph over darkness! In the beginning a piece of wood burns with a dull flame and this the dingy wigwam or cave with soot and smoke. Now at the pressure of a button the house is filled with a light that rivals the light of day, with not a particle of smoke or soot or harmful gas. Are there to be further triumphs in the art of lighting? Are we to have a light that shall drive out the electric light? Time only can tell.—St. Nicholas.

Abisit Omen!

Abisit omen! "May the omen be away." Suppose a Roman sneezed, a proclamation of sudden death. Promptly he murmured abisit omen, a prayer that the omen might pass away from him. It was a simple prophylactic measure of much the same value as the crossed fingers or the rap of the knuckles on wood in our present day avoidance of the ever menacing hoodoo, most salutary practices which it would be a pity to forget.—New York Sun.

Efficient Work.

When will we learn that it is not the number of hours we work, but the efficiency of the work done, that counts? Many of us would accomplish much more in two or three hours of vigorous, effective work when the mind is fresh and resourceful than we could accomplish in an entire day with the whole system out of time.—Success Magazine.

Reduction Sale of Hogs.

To make room for large crop of pure bred Duroc-Jersey pigs, we will make some attractive prices on 60 head of common hogs consisting of sows and gilts, bred and open, pigs and shoats. Some of the sows are bred to our registered Duroc Jersey boar. BARDWELL & BARNARD, Williams Mines, McHenry, Ky.

Notice.

To Miners and Farmers. We ask of you not to buy wagons or buggies from the Hickman-Ebbert company, of Owensboro, Ky., until they recognize the union and employ union men. Done by order of the local.

Happy WEEKS —AT— CARSON & CO.

Beginning at 8 o'clock, a. m., Monday, July 29, and ending Saturday night, August 10, we announce the merriest, jolliest and most enjoyable occasion of the year. Don't miss it.

If there is anybody within a hundred miles of this store who feels blue, they should come here and be made happy. We are going to hold a "Happy Weeks" sale—lasting two weeks—a sale pleasantly unlike any sale you've ever known. You smile at the name and the idea—already. And you'll smile for another reason within thirty seconds from the time you enter our doors. See if you don't.

Here's the Reason.

The fruits of a backward season are over-ripe in our Clothing Department. It will be the happiest two weeks for men and boys that has happened in this country for years. A big stock of fine, newly-made, hand-tailored Clothing, with all the profits washed away—by the late spring rains. The prices are in plain figures; the reduction radical.

Happy Bargains.

Happy style Dress goods, altogether as fine as ever, but oh, the difference in price! Five hundred yards Lawns and Batiste, 10c, 13c and 15c values, but all we ask is a smile and 7c a yard. Two hundred and fifty yards Lawns, Batiste and Organdies that are worth 25c and 35c a yard anywhere, but you will smile when we tell you they go at only 18c. A lot of White Swisses, regular value 75c per yard, but we are smiling them away at 39c.

Another Smile.

To be able to stop and save at the same time is a timely opportunity, and a happy one. Grasp it and join the merry throng that smile at these prices: 7c Cotton Checks for 5c. Ten-cent Apron Gingham for only 7c. 12c Dress Gingham for 10c. Just the time of year to buy them. All silk double-tipped Long White Gloves, two-dollar quality, only $1.39. All Silk double-tipped Long White Gloves, $1.25 quality, for 98c.

A Smile and 10 Cents.

We have gotten together a collection of desirable articles from all over the store and put them on a counter with a fascinating little price that must be paid on the spot by every customer. The price—and you'll smile when you see the goods—will be only ten cents. You'll find every article useful and valuable—good for the household and good for a smile whenever you use it.

Come and share this happy event—these happy two weeks—with us, and see how quickly we'll straiten that long face for you. It will be a good summer tonic for you—good for your health and good for your pocketbook.
